

TWITTER SENTIMENT ANALYSIS FOR PRODUCT FEEDBACK

Alicia García Sanz
Andreja Andrejic
Ignacio Lloret Lorente
Iker Jansà Estavillo
Martí La Rosa Ramos

Content

1

Project Overview

2

Resources and Services Required

3

Architecture

4

Deployment

5

System process

6

Use case

7

Data Regulation

8

Future works

9

Conclusion

1

2

3

4

5

6

7

8

9

Project overview

The primary goal of our project is to analyze sentiments expressed in tweets about specific products post-launch.

Functionalities

Data collection

Sentiment Analysis

Data visualization

Workflow Automation

Benefits

1

2

3

4

5

6

7

8

9

Resources and Services Required

Twitter fake API and data

Hugging Face

QuickSight

Terraform

AWS

Architecture - initial

1

2

3

4

5

6

7

8

9

Architecture - final

1

2

3

4

5

6

7

8

9

System process: Ingestion pipeline

Deployment

1

2

3

4

5

6

7

8

9

```
./
├── main.tf
├── modules
│   ├── common
│   │   ├── output.tf
│   │   ├── storage.tf
│   │   └── variables.tf
│   ├── data_analytics
│   │   ├── analytics.tf
│   │   ├── output.tf
│   │   ├── scripts
│   │   │   └── ParseDateJob.py
│   │   └── variables.tf
│   ├── data_ingestion
│   │   ├── pipeline.tf
│   │   └── variable.tf
│   └── data_prediction
│       └── prediction.tf
├── providers.tf
├── terraform.tfstate
└── terraform.tfstate.backup
```

AWS ECR

Use case

1

2

3

4

5

6

7

8

9

Data regulation (GDPR)

1

2

3

4

5

6

7

8

9

Future works

1

2

3

4

5

6

7

8

9

Administrator dashboard

Aggregation pipeline

Reduce redundancy in processes

Multiple models deployed

WHAT'S NEXT?

Conclusion

1

2

3

4

5

6

7

8

9

Challenges and limitations

Achievements

Key learnings

Thank you for your attention

